Headmaster's Message

I have now completed my first year at the Grammar School and many of my expectations of the school community have been affirmed. The Grammar School is a special place filled with special people working towards a common purpose. The heart of our school community is our student body, and this yearbook serves to celebrate and chronicle its many achievements through the school year.

Grammar School students have once again distinguished themselves through their many accomplishments. They are truly Renaissance people, and their successes in the arts, athletics, and academic pursuits speak to the balanced nature of our school's mission. They have produced creative and original art, music and drama; competed at the highest levels in athletics; and challenged and extended their intellects through their academic pursuits. Their collective well roundedness is clearly revealed through the diversity of their interests.

Students, as you peruse the pages of this issue of The Grammarian, I hope that you will relive many of the positive experiences you shared with others through the year. These may have taken place in a classroom, on the stage, in the gymnasium, or on a playing field, and others may have occurred with friends and classmates during an international school trip. Wherever your memories may have occurred, I hope that leafing through the pages of this yearbook rekindles the memories of your fondest moments. I would like to thank the members of the Yearbook Committee and the Faculty Coordinator, Ms. Angela McKegney, for the many hours spent writing, designing, and capturing the images for this issue. We are grateful for their conscientious efforts to create a memorable portrait of the people, events, and sentiments of the 2009-2010 school year.

Headmaster, Blayne Adley

A Sincere Thank You to Our Parent Sponsors:

Congratulations to the Class of 2010. Best wishes for a future filled with success.

Head Boy and Head Girl Message

With the election of Pelham and Kathleen, it's truly sunk in that our time at HGS is coming to a close. We are both going to miss everything from our student council powwow sessions to the quality time chatting with Mr. Moffatt in his office. It's hard to believe that a whole year has passed by from the day we nervously waited for the results of our week-long elections. And it's been a crazy, hectic, and memorable year. Looking back, we were extremely lucky to have such a dedicated group to work with. Rachel H spent every waking hour assembling pictures and forms from the entire student body for the yearbook. Casper turned a wall into a chalkboard to save paper, which gave us a place to turn our senseless thoughts into quotes and haikus of the week.

Emily and Liz put an unbelievable amount of work into running activities. Although they were House Captains by title, they selflessly helped organize and run all events held throughout the year. As well, our Global Affairs Stewards Ruth and Kate put on an amazing Global Affairs Conference and could always be found fundraising for the student council or multiple charities. This write up, though, would not be complete without giving a huge shout out to Mr. Hare, Ms. Baillie, and Mr. Moffatt. You were always there for us whether it be talking us out of our bizarre ideas, sitting through hours of meetings, or taking pies in the face for fundraisers. We truly appreciate your support and could not have done it without you guys! Although we're no longer going to be a part of the exciting student council events, from the rocking coffee houses to Louis and Coleman dancing topless in front of Mr. Beazley while serenading him with a candy grams, we know that we leave the school in capable hands. Thank you so much to the student body for giving us a shot at being your Head Boy and Girl! We truly had an awesome time with you guys and will miss you very much!

Priya and Vinayak

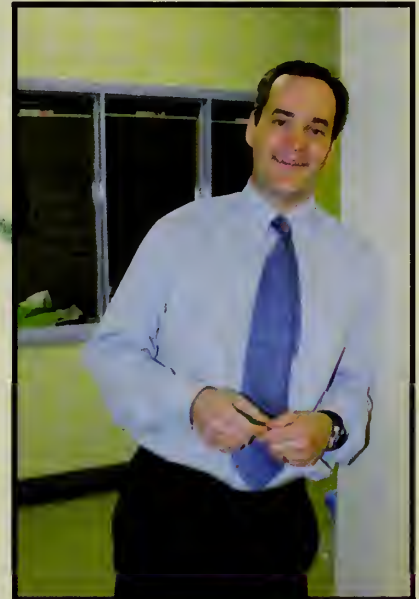

Head of Senior School Message

Reflecting on this past year, I am reminded of the many talented and dedicated students, teachers and parents that compose the HGS community, and of the countless hours many of them spend at, or preparing for school events, striving to create the best experience we can for all members of our community. Thinking of highlights for the year, my first thought was national. During the Olympics, like many Canadians, I got swept up in a wave of national pride, as our athletes did so well on their home turf. This sense of pride peaked on the last day of the Olympics, when home town boy Sidney Crosby scored the winning goal against team USA to win gold in overtime.

Closer to home, in no particular order, some of my highlights were: Ivan's portrayal of the evil Cladwell B. Cladwell; Niko's portrayal of Bobby Strong and his delivery of "freedom is scary" in this year's musical, Urine Town; Rachel's smile, whether it be on the basketball court winning Metro Basketball's MVP or on the stage as Little Sally; the Girls Senior Varsity Basketball team winning provincials; Vinayak and Team Canada winning the World High School Debating Tournament; Priya, a proud recipient of a Loran Scholarship; Ruth and Emily's dedication to Global Affairs; the successful Global Affairs Conference with speaker Maude Barlow; and the global and local response to the earthquake in Haiti.

More recently, I was proud of all of the candidates that ran for Headboy and Headgirl. Without exception, in their speeches, they all spoke highly of our school and how proud and lucky they felt to attend HGS. During Pelham's speech, I felt a sense of pride similar to what I experienced during the Olympics. He pointed out that HGS is a small school that consistently punches above its weight, much like Canada had at this year's Olympics.

The list goes on, so that a complete and accurate list is not possible. That said, the process has not been fruitless. Upon deeper reflection, I have found my personal HGS highlight for this year – this year's second assembly. I chose this for two reasons: One, is the symbolism. Under Mr. Addley's direction, we handed assemblies over to Student Council. Certainly, there have been some hiccups along the way, but I think that the learning process for those dedicated student council members has been invaluable. Assemblies are about celebrating our community, and now it is one of the few chances that students get to regularly have input on events in the school. The second reason was the video of Mario and Luigi saving Princess Peach. Not only was this a wonderfully quirky and funny presentation, it more importantly set a tone for year, and gave a glimpse of what could be; with a little time and a little latitude, assemblies could be both fun and informative. Of course it wasn't all fun and games. There were lots of essays, labs, portfolios, tests, and exams along the way. To the graduating class: Good luck in the years ahead. Make the most of your natural talents and the skills you have cultivated here at HGS. Stay in touch and keep well.

Matthew Moffatt

A note from your editors:

The creation of the 2009-2010 Grammarian has been an interesting experience to say the least. After seriously considering the best way to represent all of the wonderful people and events that occupy the Grammar School over the course of the school year, and establishing a great yearbook team, there was nothing to do but jump right in. Our yearbook team this year included MariaCristina Suteanu, Chelsea Carr-Kinnear (Senior School Editors, S3), Olivia Myette, Ji-young Song (Prep Editors, S3), Rachel MacLean (Sports Editor, S3), and Kate Hage and Claudia Sekula (Middle School Editors, M5). Everyone has been so helpful, if occasionally a little delayed... (myself included), in their contributions to the massive project that is the Grammarian. We could not possibly have completed this yearbook without the help of our wonderful staff adviser Ms. McKegney who has been amazingly helpful throughout the sometimes frustrating yearbook process. Over all though, I think the whole yearbook project has been an extremely positive and educational experience for all of us, and personally I am very glad I decided to help with the yearbook this year. Here's hoping you enjoy what we have come up with for this yearbook :) and have a great summer everybody!

Rachel Hart, Yearbook Steward (S3)

And A Very Special Thanks To: (1) Angela McKegney, who this would quite frankly have fallen apart without; (2) Heather Rushton and Catherine Moxsom, who were extremely helpful in providing access to much appreciated development office photos; (3) Ray Burke, our Herff Jones rep.; (4) Teresa Woodford who provided much appreciated middle school information; and (5) everyone else who was helpful in sharing their pictures, providing write-ups or doing any number of other things to help the yearbook process progress smoothly.

Ivan Brana

Ivan has been one of those extremely few people whom I have met who lives up to the pride of his name. An acquaintance, or even a mere friend, can say that he is intelligent, brave, and creative. However, a best friend would not say so. He is so much more than that! I say that he is wise, meaning that he has an understanding heart — a heart that makes him very open to anything... he will never let his shoulder slip away from a face full of tears. I say that he is also very courageous; of course, I can list many of his fears, but he knows that he just has to pass through them for the greater good of things. I say that he is not only creative, but rather, more importantly, highly inspired — and I bet nobody can measure this type of inspiration, which serves as his powerhouse. Try to break him in any way, and he will just keep building up and getting much better than before. Ivan never tries to hurt somebody. Instead, he tries to "fix" the person he knows needs urgent help. In terms of competition and academics, he does not strive for perfection, but rather achieves excellence. You are a bar of gold that comes fresh from the furnace, Ivan!

Remember: Ad Majorem Dei Gloriam!

~Adrian Christian Lacson

Emily Byrne

Words that remind me of Emily B. Adventures, swimming, scubanorkeling, G-lay, immature, Bahama, parties, lots of twits, thunder thighs, three, four, cranky, pew-pew, rabies, mystery-man, lifeguard, smurf, bohemian, rhapsody, chocolate, chocolate-thunder, sunburns, Zeusus, power-legs, 400 babies, bruises, hulk-bra, studded-belt, yikes, Harry Potter, owl, STEVE, woooooop... Emily B, you are crazy, loveable, the best friend a girl could have and the best person I know. Good luck. I just know you are going to make it big. Peace out horizontally. EMAC "afta-afta-afta-ahh" -this sums up Emily Byrne. Emily's weird faces and her sense of humor is what everyone makes a punning is a staple in the lounge. Her 13 years of Grammar have consisted of her excelling in all areas. But her biggest passion is the same, every day of it. Her predictable outfits and her swimmer bun (every day...) has become the norm. ONE of the most remarkable things about Emily is her consistent bedtime. Grammar is known for over-tired kids and trying to finish work at all hours of the night; Emily, on the other hand, hasn't stayed up past 11 to study. And she always manages to take a break and spend some quality time with Jack. Thus, Emily has sailed through 13 years of Grammar and when everyone around her has freaked out. You can always count on Emily, whether it is in student council, or when she is helping you eat your food. One of her most notorious fans (Louis) sums her up as "a awesome, bubbly, funny, and a little bit of a RD."

Chelsea Carr-Kinnear

Chelsea came to grace the Grammar hall with her presence in Grade 10 from Lockview High School, and, boy, are we glad she came. Our first memory together was geocaching in Acadia in Grade 10, and, from that point forward, she grew to become one of our best friends. She is someone you can always depend on to help you out and make you laugh. Her craziness in Chemistry (stoichy!) and laughing in Math is unforgettable. She also has the uncanny ability to make jokes and witty remarks ("that looks heavy... you're heavy") and can always put a smile on your face with her bubbly personality. She is not only intelligent but athletic, and has been kayaking competitively for 8 years. Chelsea started a Kids Help Phone chapter at Grammar, and expanded her horizons by auditioning for the school musical in Grade 12. Sure, we've learned a lot of things — for example, French class just isn't the place for Princess Leia; watermelon Italian sodas can be dangerous; "painted on" is just NOT good; Chanola and Chipotle are the best; teddy bears are fascinating creatures; and govnahs rule — but, most importantly, we've learned that Chelsea is a great friend. Without her, we wouldn't have had nearly as much fun or laughed nearly as much as we did. We know that in whatever she does, she will be amazing. Best of luck in the future C! - AC and NM

Alison Clarke

15 Things I've learned from 15 years of Ali:

1. Things do not have to be funny for someone to laugh at them (like this).
2. One can be a relative, even if you don't still believe that the Leafs are better than the Habs.
3. Johnny English could just be the best movie of all time.
4. Crepes can still be made even when you don't have any electricity.
5. Booyah is perhaps THE MOST AMAZING word ever invented.
6. Risk should be illegal.
7. The best stories involve squirrels, D.A.'s hair, and a boy and a girl.
8. When you're banging your head against a window, there is no better person to have around than you.
9. Reading is cool, book club is even cooler.
10. Orlando Bloom has pores the size of craters.
11. There is no other language obviously better than any other language.
12. You are not allowed to sit under the Christmas tree and eat candy at the same time.
13. Apparently Kita the dog speaks/understands English.
14. No one can fill a space like you.
15. She really truly has a heart of gold and none of us deserve to have a friend as great as her.

I love you, Al, freundin für life. —RD

Alison Conrad

Others are known as Ali, Al, Allyway, and a number of other nick names we won't disclose here, Alison is a lifer at Grammar and she has been our great friend all three years of high school. She is always kind and very considerate towards her friends, as she puts them before herself in any situation. Alison is also very entertaining: she always knows how to make someone laugh, often during class (grade 10 chem or grade 12 math and English classes, to be specific) and at times due to lack of sleep. Alison's interests include sporting sweatbands on the basketball court, playing the guitar and listening to Rascal Flatts on one of her many iPods. Alison is mostly known for her passion for basketball, as well as her paranoia – for getting sick or for the rise in global warming. Alison's ridiculously loud sneeze is probably her only mark at Grammar. Well that, or the constant questions she'll ask a teacher even if that teacher's giving her the most disliking glare imaginable. As mentioned before, Alison has a vast array of interests, ranging from television shows such as 'Grey's Anatomy' and 'Glee', to movies like 'The Day After Tomorrow' (of course, Jake Gyllenhal is in it). Alison is a great friend, and even though we will all miss her next year, we are sure she will have a very bright future. We love you B. A. C. C.K & NM

Liz Dickson

Adventures in the Minicoop are not to be forgotten – dancing to "Party in the USA" and "Starstruck" on the way to Timmy's/ Hamach/ Susie's. Liz is without a doubt the sole provider of food for ALL of Grammar; many of us would have been starved for sugar, had she not been here. Staple Liz things: lululemon, secret hundred dollar bills, lululemon, Birkenstocks, lululemon, iphone (until it died in the sewer – she dropped it down the storm drain), lululemon, gossip, lululemon. We are sure Liz has never said anything nice to Jason – just because she is preparing him 'for the real world' on a daily basis. ("I love you Big" – Liz.) We never see her during the summer, EVER, because she goes into hibernation in Bridgewater. What she does while she's there is beyond us. We hear rumours that by day she saves lives at the beach, and, by night, who knows? Despite this, there is no problem rekindling the friendship come September (except one minor detail: her denial of having to return to Hali...). Being taller than the Grammar School lighthouse makes her our fave Grammar baller. Liz has survived the lethal Grammar years (she sometimes has even done well!) and at the same time kept up on all her (million) shows. She also manages to know EVERYTHING about EVERYONE the second it happens. Good luck girl, see you in 7 years when you are the world's leading engineer/lawyer/CSIS agent/bounty hunter (all at once). Kate Elbourne

Kate joined the Grammar School family back in grade 9 and she immediately showed us all her true colors. Kate is known school wide for her ability to speak her mind and bake the best cookies ever; you can expect Kate's cookies to be sold out before the bake sale even starts. Each and every morning, as you enter the Grammar school, you can await the cheerful greeting of "good morning, Sunshine" from Kate. This girl has been known to strike fear in traffic cops and to get Liz out of parking tickets, as well as to faint on numerous occasions; for instance, after anxiously awaiting the opening day of lululemon, Kate proceeded to faint on the obese woman behind her in line. She is also known for her "tankness" in Costa Rica, as well as her extreme sunburn and fainting – yet again. If ever there is an issue, you can surely count on Kate to resolve it. She is especially vocal about her appreciation of hot men and her love for people. The Grammar School girls would have never have been graced by the image of Nacho Figuras or Fernando Torres if Kate had not introduced us to them. It is a known fact that anything with fairy stickers is Kate's; her iphone is even decorated with a wonderfully huge fairy sticker. We will miss your wonderful hugs and expression-filled eye brows. We know you will do great things, Katie Pool! Love always, Liz, Prya & Katherine

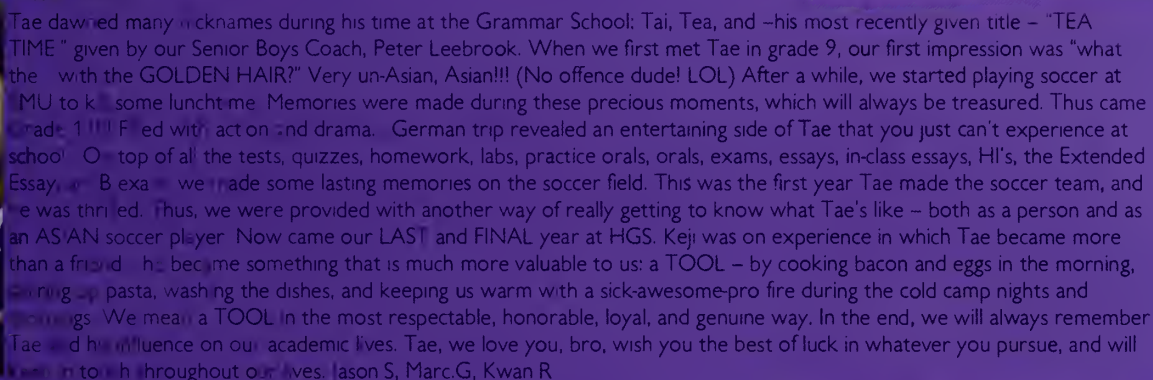

It is 8:30 am and class has started ... where is Katherine? Still at home, probably rolling out of bed, putting in my wrap as we speak! It's now lunch ... where is Katherine? At home surfing youtube and hanging with S&P. Despite her tardiness and general absence from anything remotely social, she is still one of the best friends we could have asked for had at Grammar. This blond lankster is the second of the Fraser Dynasty and has succeeded at Grammar like no other. Her ability to perform well, no matter what she does (minus TOK) is amazing. What's more, her amazing athletic skill make her a key member of any HGS sports team (just remember that golf is just for fun ...). Although certain epic cross-country adventures have resulted in a number of hilarious and less than intelligent comments (no real cannon balls are not routinely fired off Citadel Hill, and, yes, of course we're going to the park ... the one with the trees), and apart from the occasional dumb blond comments, Katherine is really a amazingly intelligent person and the kindest of them all, though she'd never admit it. Keep chasing those frogs and ducks till you're 80, and everything will be A-ok! ERLP

Oh Rachel Rachel Rachel Hart, you came into grade eight at HGS, and we have been privileged to watch you blossom into the fine upstanding citizen you are today. You were once a shy centre-parted lass, but are now an exuberant ray of sunshine that brightens our halls. Rachel has been a familiar face of the school since she came: in grade eight she was nearly anywhere in the Middle School, but often in cozy company.. by grade eleven, she OWNED that court and she could always count on Rachel and her macbook to be there (writing an essay) and this year, in our glory days, she is about to be at home in the illustrious lounge After a "lovely" soccer season that culminated in The Great Demos demonstration, "Why didn't you try out last year?!!!" it is safe to say that Rachel's bal-kickin' skills have also come a long way since the dawn of her HGS career. As well, whether painting moonscape grade 9 grad backdrops or making paper-towel tree trunks, her creations bring a welcome, sometimes wacky, and always original twist to the fabulous art class trio. Outside of Grammar, her enthusiasm for all things thrashtastic is astounding. This, coupled with Rachel's OCD tendencies, helps to make her the outrageous groupie she is. Whether you're at UVIC, gallivanting around Australia, or discovering new territories in India, it's clear that you'll bring that special Rachel something to everything you do. You'll always drink that coffee black, Downtown Funkystuff Malone, and that's just the way it should be. I cannot imagine a better friend (or a better anime). Love you to the moon and back, more than sushi and ice cream. KMD and R-Mac

Adrian Lacson is indeed such a good fellow and a fun person to be with. Whenever you feel down, he is there to offer words of consolation and advice. A poet and philosopher at heart, Adrian may ramble on about things that don't seem to make sense at first; gradually, however, as you contemplate his words their meaning becomes revealed. Even though he is silent, you can be sure that he's sociable once you get to know him. Just don't try to approach him when he's playing on his iPod; you have to wait a few 'turns' before he pays attention ... just kidding!

- Ivan Braña

Piano genius, math whiz, Begbie winner, gaming expert, arm wrestling champion, member of the Computer (Party) treasurer: Will is truly a man of action. He can usually be found in the computer lab playing [X] Killzone 3 on the FPS, changing his computer desktop wallpaper, or changing the desktop wallpapers of others. However, despite his vast knowledge of almost all things, he still cannot find his way to Spring Garden Road. As well, he has always been fascinated by plasma and complex numbers (especially imaginary plasma) and has proceeded to discuss these concepts in math and physics classes. Every math and physics class. For two years. On the infamous Quebec trip, he was stuck in "Will Will Lin," and then truly earned it when he was lost on the ski trip for 2 hours in grizzly-infested woods. After the search patrol's search was fruitless, Will emerged from the wilderness. To this day, no one truly knows what happened to Will Will Lin, but the bear's were never seen again. On a serious note, though, he has always been a great friend. Whether it was staying up late, helping photoshop posters for election campaigns or grinding through 500 pushups in a school day, he can always be counted on. We all know he is going on to do great things in whatever field he chooses (and that he will remember his friends when he is successful!). Good luck – and God bless! Casper, Luke and Vinayak

Luke Liu

Luke came to HGS in Grade 11, a seemingly innocuous, average high-school student. However, we were gravely mistaken - Luke turned out to be not a jack but a master of all trades, including math, basketball, general ninj-ing, ultimate Frisbee, football, piano, OMGPOP, cross-country, or breaking Vinayak's locker combination every time he tries to change it. In fact, we haven't found a single thing that Luke hasn't managed to learn in under five minutes and surpass us at. Moreover, it's taken us a lot longer than five minutes to find belongings that had been "misplaced" whenever we weren't looking. Although the aforementioned belongings aren't easily found, Luke can easily be found in the gym, crossing people over, or in the computer lab, pulling people at HKB, or in room 204, proving Goldbach's Conjecture. Whether it's breaking locker combinations, breaking ankles in the NBA, or breaking cryptography codes as a world-class mathematician, we are certain Luke will excel at whatever he decides to do. d(^o^)^ Casper, Vinayak, and Will

Casper Macaulay

Debating; basketball; nobody gets his jokes; seppuku; Environmental Steward; dungeons and dragons; Ffr; Bmtron; computer lab; Uranium batteries; shred; follows sports; Casperghost. Casper Macaulay, where to begin. He came to Grammar in grade 7, and proceeded to make his legacy in the Middle School, where he 'accidentally' blew up the chemistry lab and talked his way out of every school detention. Since then, he has graduated from the Middle School and proceeded to achieve a score of 80 on an emotional intelligence test, laugh at all the inappropriate times in chemistry and math class, and still talk his way out every Senior School detention. Casper is not only a champion debater, coming second at the McGill national tournament, but also a varsity athlete capable of sinking 3-pointers over people who are a foot taller than him. Casper's internet history reveals his diverse interests, from following the Bengals' in their (first ever) play-off run (that will surely end in disaster), to playing FFR (online finger Dance Dance Revolution) at inhuman speeds. Appointed as Environmental Steward, Casper has transformed the lounge wall into a reusable writing space for announcements, to save paper. He is preserving the world one chalkboard at a time. Casper's character is best exemplified in his kind and understanding tolerance of this two-month late grad write-up.. Well, he might be a little angry. Luke, Vinayak, and Will

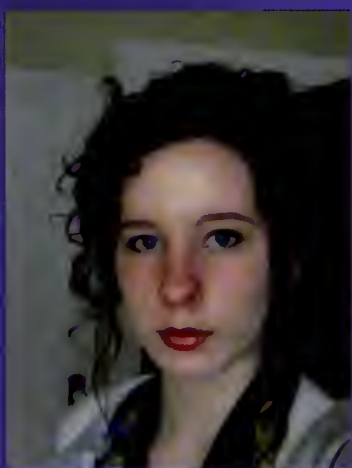

Kathleen MacDougall

What can we say about Kathleen Elizabeth Benvie MacDougall? Well, they would probably call her Kat-Mac-Doog and make her comments a part of a 'way-too-hip' soundtrack. The message would be clear, though; she is truly spectacular! While attending the Middle School (arguably Kathleen's favourite place on earth right ahead of Stellarton, and the West-Isles gymnasium) to simultaneously hit ridiculously high notes in the high school musical and earn the nickname 'maniac', which has remained popular to this day. How her vocal chords managed this, while simultaneously carrying out the most infamous head boy related obsession in HGS history is beyond my comprehension. Kat-Mac-Doog's disquisitions with proper grammar and syntax – have been known to cause drama, but she can always be relied on to solve your problems and lock up serious secrets in the vault for all eternity, provided she's not busy climbing a rope in the gym. Kathleen has been killing it at HGS since she arrived, recently especially enjoying Math Studies... Last year, when we started spending WAY too much time at the Ardmore, her true awesomeness was revealed to the rest of the world: her relationship with hipsters, obsession with Chuck and Blair (who she will be someday – but more importantly), her crazy artistic talents, and just the extent to which she is an awesome girl. Consequently, we ended up killing her (kinda) at the time. You are the best, and, if anyone ever claims otherwise, the offers to kill them/make you look like a loser. R-Hart

Andrea MacGregor

Andrea and I first became friends at Grammar way back in grade 9. We were both new, scared out of our minds, and completely lost. The only difference was that she was always calm, cool, and collected about the impending academic doom that HGS promised to us. To this day, Andrea has remained all that, but she has also become way more. Over her years here, Andie has acquired a host of cool talents that she keeps relatively secret (making giant paper cranes and riding a unicycle to name just two), but perhaps her best talent of all is being an excellent friend. Andrea is gentle, creative, and hilariously awkward at times; she's really the sort of person who is entirely worth getting to know. Thanks for that opportunity, Andie. May your future be filled with awesome experiences (and free Timbits). A.T.

Rachel MacLean

Dearest Rachel Lai-Ying MacLean, Those words say everything about you. How much blogging. Aww you are. How you massacre pieces of chicken with your bare hands. How you ball hard. How you will weep for 30 days and 30 nights if you get a 96% when we all know you deserve a 96.2%. How you hail from the rivuhh. How you are a choldo. Yeah, those are all implied by your name. Aiiightt yo, we've been buds a loooooong time, since grade 8 when you came and nagged&nagged me to try harder in school. You thought you were my mother, but it was hilarious. To sum up: don't forget me when you're at Harvard, still wearing a uniform, honing your superior intellect, and I'm off being a kid forever. Love, Mo R-mac has dominated all facets of the Grammar experience since grade 8. Despite her academic prowess, Rachel often finds herself lost in the "confusion" of Halifax's streets. The notorious Camry, almost as desirable as the bat mobile, is the envy of the entire South End and has even fallen victim to crime near HGS's safe haven (RIP Sony Ericsson). Although Rachel has the legs of a child, her torso is revered by basketball players Toronto to Thailand, & the obstacle of her height becomes irrelevant on the court when she leaps over giants in a single bound. It goes without saying that you will literally pwn at everything you attempt, whether it's Nintendo64 or UN presidency. R-mac, you're truly, Ikk 4real one of a kind. We love you. Don't forget us little people when you're ruling the world. Xoxo, R-Hart, KMD,&CJ.

Nikolas MacLellan

Ever since that geocaching experience in Grade 10, our friendship with Nko has grown. Nko has been a Grammarian for an astonishing 13 years and has earned himself the esteemed title of... wait for it... LEPER! He is an extremely competent person (being the Academic Steward) and even though he does very well in school, he has excelled in other areas of his life, attending the Canada Games for rowing and partaking in several international trips, and playing with his amazing singing and acting abilities. We've definitely had our fair share of good times! For two years, we've consistently stayed in the end-of-the-hall place (a great spot for many-a-reason), and, whether it's taking of on-line and foreign-made "funny" things, up nicknames, sleeping with eyes open, being Venus, Teletubbies on the train, making things, being great painting form, the gum-on-jeans incident, OPA! the good times with Wuzzy, or the... well, you know. We are so glad he has the ability to put up with our craziness (which there is a LOT of, having been here for 13 years made it better! His hilarious laugh and his kindness and always willingness to help (and we just always remember how he has definitely been a great person to have around the past three years, and we know he will continue to be, no matter what he does! Best of luck Nikola! - AC and CCK

Coleman Mallory

As I sat down to do this grad write-up for Coleman, I was reminded of one of his more "famous" quotes: "I don't know what to say." You see, Coleman Tod Gotrorobfel Mallory is just as complex a character as my name and name would indicate; indeed, to attempt to describe this self-proclaimed "Renaissance-Man of the Modern Era" in under 750 words would be ludicrous, especially considering that I've already used over 70. Nonetheless, I give it better words rambling and tell a story or something before I run out of room. When I first arrived at the Grammar School in grade 9, Ms. MacNeil introduced Coleman as my "buddy," a position he initially approached with his signature indifference. However, our friendship eventually overcame such obstacles as our conflicting Red Sox/Yankees loyalties and inability to distinguish random black people from Pinball Clemens, and, by my birthday in May, we were close enough for Coleman to take the time to compile a "Best of Journey" CD as a gift. Now, four years later, I am proud to call Coleman not only a friend but a band mate, and the Old Time Villains would not be the same with anyone else on Max. And so, General Magoo, whatever you decide you want to do, whether it be music, plumbing, or starring in a biopic about the life and times of Franklyn the Turtle, I'm sure you will excel at it, and I wish you all the luck in the world. Kuzak

Vinayak Mishra

Vinayak is a magician in more ways than one. When he came from Sacred Heart in grade 5, Vinayak immediately gained respect by vanquishing Coleman in a duel. Since then, he's been a valuable member of the student body, showing uncanny maturity and leadership through his willingness to share his delicious Irish snacks (I wish you could try some) and encourage others to share their snacks, which is key in a functioning school environment. Unfortunately, Vinayak has lost some in the school who have not reciprocated this kindness – cough, Luke, cough. His strong character and leadership are reflected by his prodigious dancing skills and his refusal to do anything the slightest bit illegal (except possibly drinking). He is most well known for his debating (Team Canada member) and magic trick prowess (winning a lot of awards and trophies). Vinayak possesses superhuman strength; his iron arm muscles having been forged by Mr. Rodney's Sixty-second percentile push-ups, steel leg muscles tempered by Mr. Beazley's rigorous Cross-Country training regimen. An indefatigable and unwavering determination and perseverance, Vinayak insisted on going to Cross-Country Provincials and winning glory (and awards) even with a bad cold. As a result of his sacrifice, Vinayak fell victim to swine flu and missed out on being the first person to win first time this has ever happened not as a consequence of winning debating (or, in fact, its related field of debate). Vinayak is not only athletically adept, but he also possesses god-like FZero gaming skills, the dream of every player. And it is so common to refer to Vinayak as a "good friend" – in reality he is one of the most loyal and caring friends I have ever known. He is an excellent chemistry lab partner. Casper, Luke, and Will.

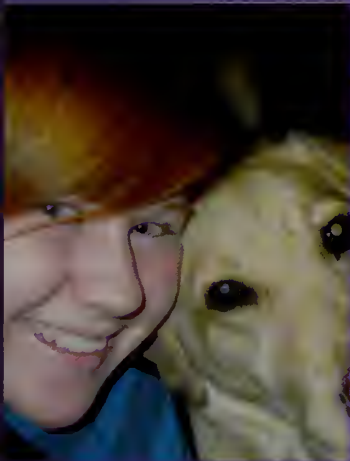

Andrew Murphy

When Andrew Murphy graced the Halifax Grammar School with his presence, he was but a young, timid tenth grader, freshly imported from Ontario. Despite our lack of ability to tell him apart from his older brother, we knew he was destined to become legen - wait for it - dary. Our mounting suspicions of his potential grew stronger upon his return to school after a trip to Mexico over Christmas of that year. Slightly sunburnt and sporting a broken nose, Andrew recounted a tale of epic proportions and ultimately changed our vision of this ginger-haired boy forever. While always exchanging many stories and jokes, our friendship really began in October of grade eleven upon the arrival of the Christmas holidays. One fateful car ride to the airport later, and my life had officially been Murphed. From that day forth, I've learned that this boy can always be counted on for a great time. I've watched my stories morph from ones I would tell him to ones we would share and tell together, and, let's face it, they ALWAYS involve Germans. If there is one thing I have learned from Andrew Murphy, it is that no matter how amazing a night you may have, or how many times you are visited by a certain fairy, you can never love or miss your family too much; once you meet Mama Murph, you will understand this completely, and she has truly raised a wonderful boy. So, Murph, when you are 25 years old and retired, and I'm struggling to get by in this world, remember the wild, ridiculous times we have had, and be a dear and take me in, because I know that there is no plausible way I'll ever forget you. Love always, - Alison

Olivia Myette

Bordering on stubbornness, Olivia Myette is an extraordinarily determined person who works hard to fulfill her dreams; her dazzling sense of humour, brilliant intellect, and strong compassion mark her as an amazing friend. Since grade ten when we first met, we have regularly laughed together with tears in our eyes. For instance, in French class, I (M.C.) once asked Olivia what a certain sentence meant. Resolute to unveil the truth, Olivia closed her eyes, covered them with her hands, moved closer to the page, and, sounding almost desperate, cried: "I can't see! I can't see!" Laughter inevitably followed. It is imperative to mention that Olivia has the greatest passion for chemistry we have ever seen in a person. Let's rephrase that: in a student. Her excellent understanding of the subject, her reliability as a lab partner, the extraordinary neatness of her notes, and the misery she feels if she misses a chem class clearly indicate that Olivia wants to very soon enter this domain. Olivia, dear, you astound us practically every day with your broad knowledge - whether this may concern Mi'kmaq words, cat ear muscles, volcano rocks, the inventor of pants, or how to make a fire (which, for some of us - e.g. the undersigned - is practically impossible). When embarking upon the latter task - and, in fact, on any mission, Olivia completely devotes herself to the undertaking, somehow succeeding to shut the whole world out and thus achieving an exceptional outcome. Dear Olivia, with your genuine concern for others, your unyielding determination, and your passion for learning, you can definitely make your dreams come true!!! We hope to stay friends with you forever, as you become an incredible geochemist, a professional spellbinding story-teller, and an even more accomplished (if possible) sailor! (All at once, of course.) Love, Ji Young and Maria Cristina

Kevin Ryoo

Kevin K. Ryoo When Kevin first came to this school in grade 9, we never thought we would be friends with him. Wearing a pair of worn-out puma shoes, baggy jeans, and thin glasses, this kid looked like a typical Korean. Little did we know the well-dressed N. Tae and Marc had the opportunity to be in the same class as him, while Jason only met him halfway through the year. Kevin - the way - was the founder of our daily soccer games at SMU field. It started with him and you know - the way - as the others joined in. What amazed us was Kevin's ability to kick a ball at breakneck speeds without any trouble. The only trouble was that you never knew where the ball was going to end up! All of us would just duck and hope to live. Some of the SMU track runners were pregnant. Although his friends gave him a hard time with his choice in footwear, it never seemed to bother him, as he was always passionate about Liverpool. If Kevin had to choose, in a life or death scenario between Fernando Torres and his own flesh and blood ... well, we hope it never comes to that. After a while of being together, Jason and Kevin resembled Harold and Kumar in the most obvious way you can think: an Asian and a Korean that were inseparable. Kevin, we hope you pursue your career in business...like...representative...thing...for...the...company...you know...and we wish you luck for the future. You have been there for all of us, and HGS would not have been the same without ya bro. We hope you keep in touch in the future, and never lose our friendships. YNWA! Jason, Tae and Marc

Jason Saldhana

We met Jason in Grade 9 when he was a little, innocent-looking Indian boy similar to Dev from Slumdog Millionaire. We never expected him to turn into the wild, partying animal he is now. Jason seemed like a perfect fit to our soccer games at SMU because we desperately needed someone to stand between the posts... And he turned out to be a "decent" keeper, though he refused to share his talent with the soccer team. Before Grade 11, we could see that Jason was very keen on his grades and academic appearances. But now we see him as a socialite, who still only cares about his grades and academic appearances. Jason's always had our back between 8 and 5 on weekdays, excluding Fridays and Mondays. As grade 12 approached, we found that he had obsessions with Birdman and Lil' Wayne. We found him constantly rapping, and REMIXING! It took a little adjusting to, especially as Jason started referring to himself as B.I.G Jay all the time. Discovering his obsession for basketball and soccer, we found ourselves betting on games, crying and celebrating 1 or 2 dollar benefits during the fun times at Keji. One of the highlights of that trip was finding the difficulty Jason had in creating a simple fire; however, with Tae's instructions, Jason improved so much that he was indeed able to offer all the campers a warm fire for the night. Jason, we hope you go on to succeed in whatever field you choose for your career, and we hope that you become very successful one day - we have no doubt that you will. We also hope that you continue to grow your chin strap/beard, and that it eventually grows down to your boot. Kevin, Tae and Marc

Jiyoung Song

"Hello! How are you? What is your name?" These were the first words Jiyoung said to us. And the second. And the third. You get the point. Luckily, we got beyond that, or this would have been a very short write-up, ha ha ... Jiyoung, you are such a special person. You are a fun, hardworking, and supportive friend (not to mention a great person to watch horror movies with). You can always find something to smile about, even when IB throws its worst at us! Remember grade 10 bio class when you named our frog, and those crazy drawing wars where you used your artistic talents to beat us into a pulp? What about your imaginary flying animal friends and the Bear Song? And your "pet" Reddie? Ah, good times, good times. Whether you choose to become a psychologist for children, a plastic surgeon, or a criminal mastermind (because saying that you are a 'kind, innocent girl' a million times doesn't make it true, ha ha ha), we know you'll succeed! Wishing you front row seats to a DBSK concert, as well as all the other wonderful (albeit less important) things in life! Love always, Olivia and Maria Cristina

P.S.: Strawberries are SO accessory fruit. As opposed to vegetables. Fruit. So there.

Sarah Sullivan-Smith

Sassy Sarah Sullivan-Smith has attended HGS for the full 13 years, although we are confident that her total would be no more than 4. This pattern intensified in Middle School: the first time she got a concussion, which occurred not once, not twice, but thrice, it was deemed unsafe for Sarah to participate in any physical activity with the exception of her beloved dance. On the days she was able to make the trek to HGS, she would usually be found in the kitchen. Occasionally, we fell under the euphoric spell of Sarah's safe haven and ended up with a sweet little concussion of our own. Passing long hours driving from Toronto to Montreal, the classic Sullivan-Smith was always a road warrior. The likes of country music stars who brag about such feats as "wrestling hogs and gators with their two hands" (which is a common one, Sarah has also been known to suggest completely logical Baskin-Robbins runs in 152 weather-proofed Baskin-Robbins) be relied on for yummy baked goods, the best fireplace in the world, or a bed to curl up in when you're feeling a little off. Such classic comfort phrases as "don't worry, China, he knows you loved him before the time machine," "I'm a genius," "I'm talented at giving heartfelt advice or hearing you out, whichever you need to feel better," "A really lovely, caring, generous person, whether it's clothes-lending or boy troubles, she's got your back. She can always be counted on to be the 'Cinderella, and Audrey Hepburn, or in her kitchen cooking up a delectable storm. We're sure that one day Sarah will reach new heights in the field of jolly Estonian bakers, or any other path she wishes to do so. Love always, Olivia and Maria Cristina, Mac, KMD and CJ

Maria Cristina Suteanu

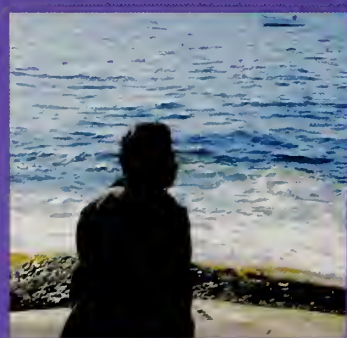

Our brilliant, reliable, funny, and virtually quadrilingual academic powerhouse of a friend and fellow student, Maria Cristina Suteanu, has been at this school since the seventh grade. Since then, she has become very involved in the school and student body, growing to be an important (and much-needed) part of groups such as the Student Council and the Gryphon Review. It is easy to go on at length about her many superb accomplishments, such as landing on the high honour roll on a consistent basis, winning written and oral contests in foreign languages, and downing an awe-inspiring number of sandwiches, but her joy and enthusiasm at the achievements of others is equally impressive and commendable. Maria Cristina is interested in medicine and environmental science, and it is clear to anyone who knows her that she will do great things if she follows either of these career paths or any other, as she is honestly capable of just about anything. M.C., you are always so willing to help us in whatever way you can. Your ready smile and contagious laugh has brightened many a moment. Despite your already formidable knowledge, you are always eager to learn. (I do think people often miss your slightly violent side, which is hilarious; remember when you tripped me as we raced for the same seat and my clumsiness landed me in the garbage can?) I wouldn't have made it through French class without your patient translations, happy spirit and enthusiasm! Love always! -AM and OM

Herun Tarun

Profound insight into human nature, great compassion for those around him, and a great sense of humor are some of the features most striking about Herun. A highly trustworthy and perceptive person, Herun has won pretty much all the awards he had - which were never genuine and were usually ignited by unclear or strange actions of his. (I do think people often miss your slightly violent side, which is hilarious; remember when you tripped me as we raced for the same seat and my clumsiness landed me in the garbage can?) I wouldn't have made it through French class without your patient translations, happy spirit and enthusiasm! Love always! -AM and OM

Herun somehow manages to read practically continuously; I am assuming that he is a very good reader. His most admirable undertaking (reading, not sleeping) certainly highlights Herun's intellectual capabilities. It is a testament to that which fulfills him. I must also mention that, to this day, I cannot fathom the way in which he manages to devour sooooo many pages per unit of time! But then again, I neither understand the way in which he manages to keep his eyes fully opened, in the wee hours of school mornings, nor his capacity to practically ever getting sick. Perhaps these are all Oberon-like qualities, something that only a few people can do. I hope your high energy, steadfast determination, unceasing kindness, and great intellect will continue to inspire the rest of our student lives and possibly neuroscience-related careers. Love always, Olivia and Maria Cristina, Mac, KMD and CJ

Amalia Tweedie

Jessica Amalia Catherine Marcoux Tweedie is a fabulous example of a Halifax Grammar School student. She is many things to many people: master procrastinator, friend-rescuer, faithful Chinese restaurant employee, academic punch-packer, casual miracle worker, ex-Bostonian, chauffeur, caffeine addict, and incredible dandelion-flute player. She is known for her numerous bizarre and exciting adventures in her old car, Harold, and she will certainly be known for many more to come in her new, suave, less rickety car, Sanchito. It is probably fitting that a portion of the grad write up for her was written in a bathtub; she is skilled at similarly strange feats of multi-tasking. In the future, Amalia would like to pursue a career in journalism. This suits her superior writing skills as well as her evident desire to make things difficult for herself. There is no doubt that she is on her hilariously strange way to a brilliant and successful future. - AM

Louis Zatzman

For millions of years man lived just like the animals. Louis still does. Still unfamiliar with many of life's social constraints, Louis still rocks the sweatpant – neck dirt combo to even the most formal events. His total lack of a social conscience has forced him to bail hard and run fast from many interactions – including the infamous “gentlemen's disagreement” in the grade 12 lounge. But the fact that I have remained such good friends with Louis despite being constantly embarrassed by his antics, speaks to his amazing qualities as a friend. Louis will always be there for you, willing to talk about his feelings late into the evening. Together we have started a band, led a search for Princess Peach, and even stolen public property. Louis puts all his effort into whatever he does, which has resulted in him becoming an accomplished guitar player and an extremely keen student, and I have no doubt that he will succeed in whatever he sets his mind to. My life at the Grammar School definitely would not have been the same without two-bottle Zatzman around and I'm glad he was there to make it entertaining every step of the way because when it comes to high school experiences, everybody gets one.

PRIVATEERS

Around The World...

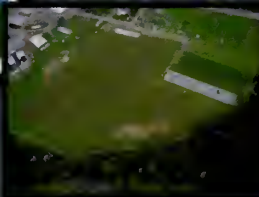

Senior Bonding Trip: Camp Mockingee was an all-around awesome experience for S1s. We enjoyed canoeing, wacky games, great food, great weather, and a wicked campfire. More importantly, we had some bomb bonding time. Teamwork was a definite theme, as was trust. Campfire was a time of music, creativity, reflection, and idle chat. It was incredible to be together, sharing our experience and having a good time. Our gratitude goes to our enthusiastic and supportive teachers for organizing this opportunity as well as to our hilarious councilors for their awesomeness. Mark Flowerdew S1 and Arielle Legere S1

White Point: All of our students of the S3 leadership team and their faculty advisors headed to the beautiful White Point Beach Resort again this August to plan student council activities for the 2009-2010 school year. It was great to see everybody and get a head start on planning the year's events during this quick and enjoyable excursion. Oh, and we went swimming.)

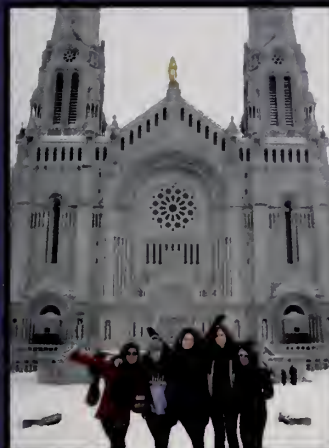

Camping in Kask: The entire S3 class had a fun time on our annual camping trip to Kask in September. The weather was beautiful, and even the less camping inclined among us seemed to enjoy chasing each other through the woods or attempting to do something that resembled a sport. I think we all made some sweet memories in the forest that we won't soon forget!

Prep School Day Trip:

Students and faculty in the Prep went on a wonderful adventure on Oct. 16th to Windsor enjoying the black-light puppetry magic of the Puppet Theatre performing three favourites by children's author/illustrator, Eric Carle. We boarded the buses and travelled to nearby Honeycomber Farm. Despite the brisk wind, low temperature and overcast sky we enjoyed the guided tour, finished on hot chocolate and walked our way through some magical fields. We made a campfire for all the little campers, sang a riddle and then went back to our car. We had a picnic and then went back with little rubber chickens. Thanks to the kind staff and What fun to be in the Prep way for school!

Grade 9 Trip to Greece:

Over the March break, the grade 9 class travelled to Greece. After a wonderful day trip in Montreal, we arrived in Athens, where we would see unbelievable wonders. Immediately after entering the Acropolis, we were immersed in a perfectly preserved past, truly a monument to the glory of ancient Greece. Behind the colossal Propylaea, the Parthenon stood in magnificent grandeur alongside the temple of Athena Nike. The following day, we drove up Mount Parnassus in the driving rain to visit the oracle of Delphi. It was now time to leave the city of Athens, and cruise the famed islands of Greece. We docked in countless ports, each unique culturally, a totally separate experience from all the others. We travelled through the winding roads, among the blue and white buildings of peaceful Mykonos, bartered tactfully with the shop keepers of Turkey, and swam in the waters of the Mediterranean at Rodos. We spent the last night of the cruise in the mountain town of Santorini, the true gem of Greece. Other highlights include the temple of Poseidon, and a "Greek night" of dining festivities. The grade nine trip to Greece was truly a once in a lifetime opportunity.

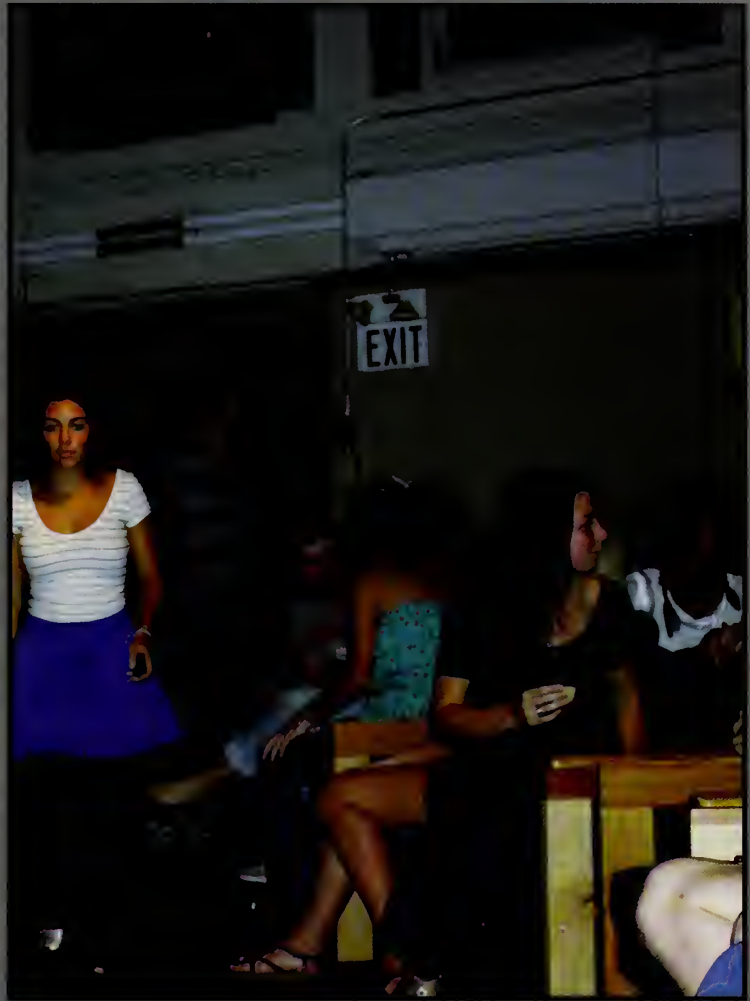

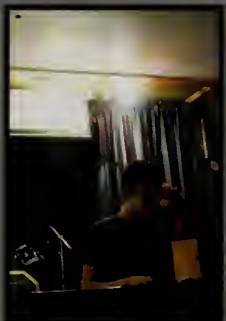

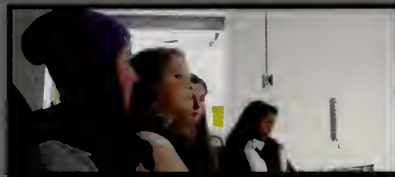

Coffee

Coffee Houses at Grammar not only offer a great opportunity for the community to come together, they also provide a terrific platform to raise awareness of and funds for a given cause. This year, Grammar Coffee Houses have raised hundreds of dollars for organizations such as the Terry Fox Foundation and The Stephen Lewis Foundation. This would not be possible without the generous support of a dedicated group of teachers and students who work extremely hard to make these events a success. With every show this year, Grammar talent and generosity continues to impress teachers and students from HGS and the surrounding community.

URINE GOOD COMPANY IN URINETOWN

A Musical Presented By The Students of HGS's Senior School

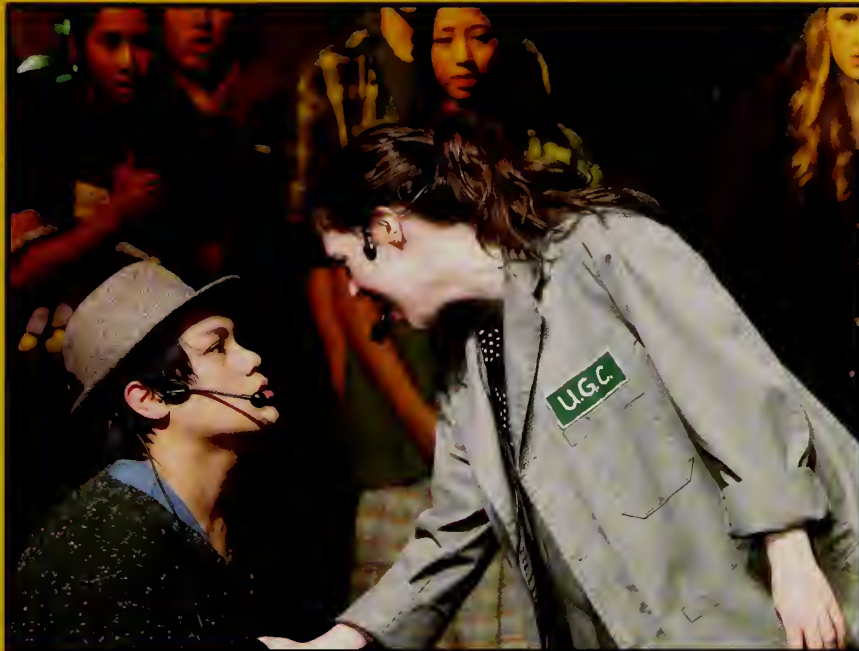

Why, hello there. And welcome to — Urinetown (the musical)! Based on the book by Greg Kotis, and music by Mark Hollman, Urinetown is a tale of greed, corruption, love, and revolution in a world where water's worth its weight in gold. The audience is pulled into a dark city run by greedy politicians and a large monopolizing corporation, Urine Good Company, where a ban has been placed on public toilets (known as public amenities) as a result of a terrible drought that ravaged the city's water system. Accordingly, the poor must use public bathrooms to take care of their private business, and are now charged for performing one of humanity's most basic needs — taking a pee. Working at the poorest, filthiest urinal in town, an assistant custodian by the name of Bobby Strong (Niko MacLellan, S3) leads an uprising against UGC and its wealthy boss, Mr. Cladwell (Ivan Brana, S3). Bobby has the support of the city's poor, including the precocious Little Sally (Rachel MacLean, S3) and Cladwell's daughter Hope (Arielle Legere, S1), who unwittingly falls for our hero because of his tenacity and big heart. Opposing the revolution is the urinal warden Ms. Pennywise (Kathleen MacDougall, S3) and the city's large police force, led by the narrator, Officer Lockstock (Kenzie Delo, S2). If Bobby doesn't stay in line, he risks being sent away to the mysterious Urinetown. Led by director Andrew Aven Gillis and choreographed by Ffeon Elliot, the show was one of Halifax Grammar's finest. Shawn Whynot, musical director, and Dawn Hatfield's pit band deliver an incredible variety of catchy and memorable songs that spill out from every corner of Urinetown.

Middle School Drama Society Presents:

As You Like It

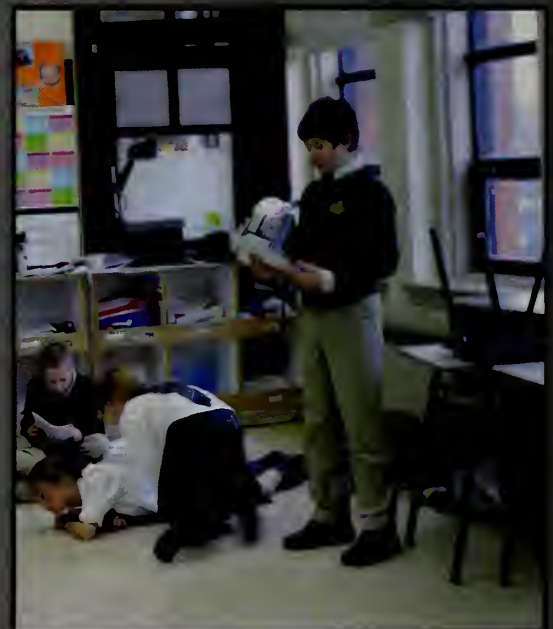

By William Shakespeare

The Middle School Drama Club presented As You Like It this year, with the largest cast of any of our annual productions yet. This comedy provided a rich variety of parts for our group, from an evil Duke to a chorus of sheep to a lovestruck shepherd to a number of characters who take various forms of disguise and double-disguise. We rehearsed all year and presented the show at the end of April. Mr. Charles Follini

Cast List: Aidan Harris, Annie Ha, Annika Gnann, Aria Publicover, Ben Stratton, Brian Seo, Caitlin Miller, Cameron Moffatt, Chad Hendrickson, Chris Jiang, Christian Ghosn, Connor Keefe, Deivan Steele, Emma Laffoley, Ewan McPhee, Franziska Gnann, Jae Noh, Jeremy Rutledge, Julie Mosher, Katherine Morris, KC Case, Kirk Drabble, Lily Li (M2), Lily Li (M5), Louise Lacson, Lucy Morgan, Meg Campbell, Megan Sutton, Michael Waller, Mileny Zumeta, Mr. Addley, Mr. Laffoley, Oliver Falvey, Richard Waller, Shahzaib Khan, Simon Law, Simon Murdoch, Tara Sverko, Toby Partridge, Tom Fraser, Una Sverko, Ursula Calder and William Dawson.

The cast is hard at work in Mr. Follini's room!

Winter Concerts

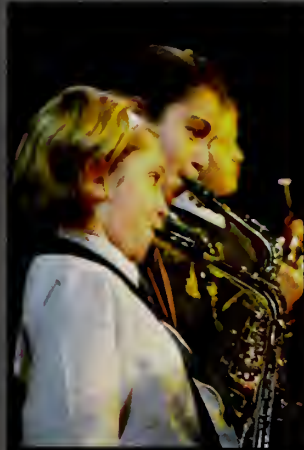

HGS Instrumental Music Students presented their first concert of the school year on December 1. All of the bands performed very well and we had an excellent turn-out for the event. Special mention should be made regarding the Beginner Bands and the Jazz Band for whom this was their first performance. Thank-you to all the parents who attended the concert, volunteered their time on concert night, and brought and bought baked goods. Your support is greatly appreciated.

Dawn Hatfield

The Prep Winter Concert took place on December 16th. The Prep School participated in the musical production of 'The Christmas Carol'. The Prep Students dressed up as an impressive display of eclectic elves, and sang alongside the P4 students who performed the acting roles. Grumpy old Carol, mean kids, elves with cowboy drawls, and ghosts with Irish accents entertained from start to finish! There were special presentations by the Hip Hop and Highland dancers, the violinists and the Grade Three and Four Choir.

HGS Prep School Drama Club

the Pooh

After months of hard work and preparation by staff and students, the Halifax Grammar School Prep Drama Club presented their annual March Musical Theatre Production on Tuesday, March 2 and Wednesday, March 3 at Meinertzen Theatre, Tower Road Campus. This year, they were very proud to present the much-beloved story of "Winnie the Pooh", based on the timeless characters of A.A. Milne. This production was based on a book by Kristin Sergel with music by Allan Jay Friedman. Lyrics are by A.A. Milne and Kristen Sergel. The Prep Drama Club is co-directed by Ms. Jane Messenger and Ms. Ashlea Hawker with musical direction by Mr. Shawn Whynot.

All of the familiar friends were present, including Christopher Robin (Mark MacKay and Evan Surcon), Owl (Justin Boutilier-Hirsch and Gareth Butler), Piglet (Jamie Grant and Dimitra Tsimiklis), Rabbit (Maggie O'Brien and Jade Frazer), Kanga (Galen Pickett and Edie Wilson), Roo (Jerry Miller, Duncan Brydie), Eeyore (Emmery Bureau and Kaylee Woo), Tigger (Nick Mason and Andrew Moffatt), and of course, Pooh (Katie Waller, Carson Crane and Amy Huang). Also, the 2 Prep one classes joined the ensemble as a fun-filled and bumbling swarm of honey-bees.

Visual Arts at HGS

There has always been a tradition of excellence in the visual arts at HGS through the younger grades up to the IB visual arts program in S2 and S3. This year, the graduating class has, as always, produced a commendable body of work under the guidance of the wonderful Ms. Silver! The younger grades were impressive as well. Of note, the M2 class worked together to create this complicated sketch now on display in the Middle School stairwell.

The middle school was especially active in raising funds for earthquake relief after January's disaster.

The Terry Fox run was a great success again this year, with students from all grades participating in the run.

Community Service Projects

Community service projects and lessons a la carte are a staple for student life at HCS. Encouraged by the guidance of teachers (Mr. Donald and Mrs. Elmore and formerly Mrs. Susan Fraser) the student body has taken many initiatives in the hopes of bettering the lives of others. From the annual Terry Fox run to the Toy and Clothing Drive for Toys for Tots, the school's response in the wake of its disaster was swift and effective. There was certainly no shortage of funds to support the work of Amnesty International. Since then a committee has been formed to draw attention to human rights issues and the year's Human Rights committee was especially busy with its organizing of a human rights awareness conference on the subject of youth and human rights. Maude Barlow, as well as participating in the annual Human Rights month throughout the school in December. The school was very proud with many initiatives such as the Red & Green Day for UNICEF fund-raising. The HCS parent Women's Circle Committee raised close to $1000. With this donation the school was able to goats, chickens, fruit trees, and other items. The school was able to names list a few of the valuable projects of our HCS community parents this year. They continue to provide a great atmosphere for the Grattin community.

Leadership & team chemistry were the keys to a hugely successful season for the senior girls varsity basketball team, which qualified for Div. 1 provincials for the 5th consecutive year and won the championship for the second time in school history! Led by Captain and Metro League MVP, Rachel MacLean, and Captains Liz Dickson & Alison Conrad, & impressive newcomers Tessa Stammberger and Denesha Sule, the team overcame the graduation of 7 seniors from the previous year. They started the season by defending their Grammar Classic title, where Rachel was MVP, Tessa was an all-star and Denesha was top defensive player. A 2nd place finish at the Ice Bowl, where Tessa was an all-star, and a 3rd at the Blizzard Invitational in Quebec City, with Rachel & Tessa on the all-star team followed, en route to an overall record of 23-7 heading into provincials. Off the court, the season was highlighted by rookie initiation, Shayla's sleeping skills, Denesha's wacky sense of humour, Alison's texting ability, team brunches, frigid outdoor skating, Kathy finding Olympic mittens for the whole team and learning at 4:45 that the malls in Quebec close at 5:00 on Saturday. - Bill Spurr

With 9 players returning from one of the youngest teams in the province, the outlook was optimistic as the senior boys basketball team entered the season. The team got off to a fast start in the Metro League jumping out to a 3 - 1 record at the Christmas break. The 2nd half of the season saw the team face all the league's best. Although the boys played well versus the perennial powers, they still have a gap to overcome if they are going to challenge for the Metro Championship. The boys finished with a 4 - 7 league record and 10 - 12 overall. The team loses 4 seniors to graduation; Luke Liu, Casper Macaulay, Coleman Mallery & Louis Zatzman. All four will be missed next year. There is a lot of optimism on the HGS campus as they look forward to next season. With nine players returning, the Gryphons should challenge for top spot in the Metro league - Mr. McGarrigle

Middle School BASKETBALL

This year's junior high basketball team entered the A division and finished with a 7-4 record. They were the ACIS champions, defeating Rothesay in the final in a close game, but were upset by Cornwallis in the quarterfinals of their playoffs. Grade nines Patrick Morris and Liam Elbourne will be missed; Patrick for his shooting and leadership and Liam for his on-ball defense. Next year's team will return eight of ten players and will look to compete for the metro banner. Thank you to Mr. MacInnis for coaching us this year. - BJ Spurr

ROSTER, Boys' "A" Team: Patrick Morris , Liam Elbourne, Liam Johnston, Mikey Fraser, BJ Spurr, Garrett Mallery, Alister Knox, AJ Case, Dyrel Johnston, Owen Patterson

The Grammar Girls' Junior High Team had a great season, from the first intense tryouts to the final playoff game against St. Pat's Alexandra. Coached by Mr. Mike Peterson and Jill Tasker, the girls had a fantastic learning experience and developed their skills tremendously. Led by team captains Ellen Snook, Adelle Goodfellow, and Katie Ross, the team had a record of 5-2. Their first victory came over Gorsebrook, followed by tough losses to St. Pat's and Oxford, but they rebounded with an outstanding win against Cornwallis, with Kiersten Boyle and Katie Ross leading the girls' press. This was followed by two more wins, vs. St. Agnes and Sacred Heart. The girls also captured the ACIS Championship. - K&K

MIDDLE SCHOOL B-GIRLS BASKETBALL

The Junior Girls B-Basketball team had a fun and exciting season. With a few returning players and some new participants, we played many close, action packed games against schools all around the city. We participated in the ACIS Tournament at Sacred Heart School, and we won two of our tournament games. This year, we welcomed a new coach and many players who were new to the game of basketball. Although there was a learning curve for many of the girls, they all learned a lot about the game and had a fun time doing it, making it a memorable season for the coach, the staff advisor, and for all of the players involved.

- Ms. Walsh, Staff Advisor.

D3 BOYS BBALL

The D3 Boys Basketball Team, though young and relatively inexperienced, set itself the goal "to practice and to play each game slightly better than the last," which they undoubtedly did. Thanks to the leadership of returning players, Will Lin, Vinayak Mishra and Pelham Flowerdew; assistant coaches Chris Robbins, Simon McCormack and Nate Jones; and the strong commitment of all the new players to improve as a team. Mr. Rodney considers this to be one of the most rewarding seasons he has coached at HGS.

JV GIRLS BBALL

With only two returning players, the 2009-2010 Junior Varsity girls' basketball team was faced with a rebuilding year. It was a large, dedicated team, with several players who had never played on a basketball team before, including Amanda Volcko. She soon became a starter with her quick understanding of the game. We competed in the ACIS tournament in early January and played some tough teams, but finished in 4th. We finished our regular season with a record of 4-6, something to improve upon next year. We earned the Division 3 Regional Champions title with a decisive win against Carrefour and travelled to Digby to compete for the provincial title. With a team comprised entirely of grade 10s and 11s, all the girls look forward to returning next season, and to becoming a real threat in the Division 2 league.

Cross Country

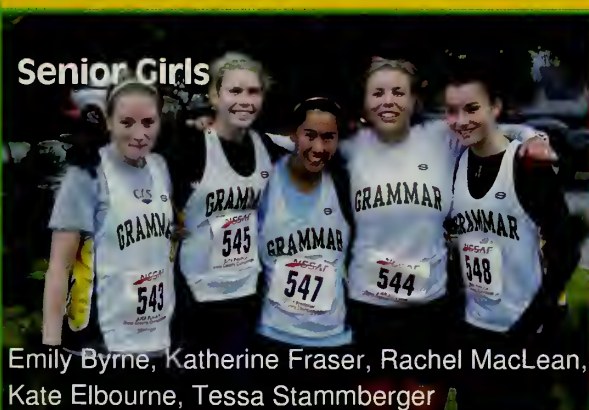

The Junior Boys B-basketball team surely had a year to remember for all who participated on the team. Not much was expected from our team, which consisted of 1 grade 6 up to 4 grade 9's who had never played basketball before in their lives. Did we ever surprise our competition, as we went 4-4 on the season. We lost to the top team in the league by only 7 in our 2nd last game. But it wasn't the skill that made our team improve the most; it was the realization that we were the team that was on the court for fun, and by having the most fun we were playing better than our opponents. So, with a great team and an extremely enjoyable year with Mr. Laffoley and Ms. Woodford, the Jr. Boys' team was certainly a team to remember. - Alex Fraser

This year, a record number of athletes competed for the HGS cross-country running team. 44 athletes competed in at least 1 race, while others practiced with the team without competing. Early season results included 3 metro series race wins for the intermediate boys' team, which captured the Metro banner, and individual race victories by Luke Liu and Alex Fraser. 37 athletes competed at the Regional championships. Highlights included the int. girls winning the Capital Region banner, both the sr. girls and int. boys' teams placing 2nd, and a total of 32 athletes qualifying for provincials. 30 runners competed at the NSSAF championships in Antigonish, the largest team HGS has ever taken to provincials, which necessitated the popular decision to take the entire team on a bus. The sr. girls won a bronze medal, the int. boys placed 4th, the int. girls placed 7th, and the jr. girls placed 8th. Our top individual finishes were Tessa Stammberger, the 8th sr. girl, Adelle Goodfellow, the 13th int. girl, and Luke Liu, the 16th sr. boy. Of note, Katherine Fraser and Emily Byrne received bronze medals as members of the sr. girls team. They have now won team cross-country medals every year from grade 7 until this year, grade 12. Congratulations to Katherine, Emily, and the rest of this year's team for a fun and successful season.

It was a pleasure once again to be staff advisor to the senior girls' soccer team. I am always impressed by the girls' enthusiasm for the sport and the team. The commitment they displayed by coming to practices and games, even if they had other work to do, was always appreciated, and made my and Denis' job that much easier. Thanks to co-captains Chloe Jacobs and Kate Elbourne. You kept the enthusiasm up through the wettest season I've ever seen! Good luck to the graduates; you'll be missed both on and off the field. — Ms. Kingston

End of Season Report from Head Coach Peter Leebrook

The Senior Boys' Soccer team started the season with a squad of 14 players. Out of these players, we did not have a "natural" goalkeeper. Finally, Marc Gordon was found and did a tremendous job in nets, acting as the team's anchor and helping everyone's confidence. Goals against went from 8 for the first game to 5 for the second to 4 for the third to 2 for the fourth and then to 0 against Auburn. Every game, the team played was competitive and all players always worked very hard to the final whistle.

Adrian Laing and Everett Grunsky were consistent as full backs. Philip Gores, Peter Nicholson, Jason Saldanha and Tom Edgerton always worked hard and played where they were asked, and Kevin Ryoo, Florent Herbringer, Tae Kim and Michael Malak were the glue in midfield. Roman & Kiefer Burgess played where they had to in order to stop the other team from scoring or to score or create for us. Special thanks to Liam Elbourne and other Grammar players from the juniors who "played up".

This season was a success purely because the team never gave up in any game and did what was necessary for the best interest of the team. We had an understanding before the season started that winning or losing wouldn't define our success, our style of play would. That is what made the difference for the team, and is certainly something to build on for the future.

Middle School SOCCER

What an amazing season! This year's team was comprised of 9 M5's, 3 M4's, 4 M3's and 2 M2 students. Together, we not only started strong, we finished even stronger. We won every title we could this year. We were Metro, Regional, and ACIS Champs and, probably most rewarding, we were this year's U15 National CAIS Champs. A coach could ask nothing more of her players. As offensive players, Gazal and Meg made a sacrifice for the team by playing completely new positions and being key members of our defensive line. Our keeper, Clair, (Ms. "I'm as big as the net,") showed no fear and set a positive example for goalies across the country.

No one could hold down the center like Katie & Adelle. Always diligent, they won every ball and hit our outside mid-fielders, Sydney or Michaela, tearing up the wing, who crossed the ball into our feisty strikers Maya, Renu, and Speedy Hummer. Jill, our M3 superstar, scored the only two goals in our Championship final. The efforts of a team that contributed equally, played with heart and pushed past complete exhaustion paid off. Congratulations girls, I couldn't be more proud! Coach Cindy Wilson

GIRLS' ROSTER: Claire West, Katie Ross, Adelle Goodfellow, Jill MacDonald, Katherine Hum, Gazal Kukreja, Meg Campbell, Maya Gantar, Renuka Koilpillai, Michaela Title, Sydney Adamson, Erica Weigand, Hailey Johnston, Annika Gnaan, Nicole Chater, Maddie MacLean, Katherine Morris and Mairi McKinnon.

BOYS' ROSTER: John Attenborough, Rory McParland, Ankur Gupta, Alex Fraser, Will Bluteau, Garrett Mallery, Jordan Bezanson, BJ Spurr, Geoff Zed, Richard Waller, Will Stordy, AJ Case, Harrison Scholes, Joe Edgerton, Dyrel Johnston, Yanis Smith

This year's Jr. High Boys' Soccer Team was the strongest it has been for a long time. The team captured both the ACIS and Metro championships. In the ACIS tournament, the team coasted through early rounds before winning a close game with King's Edgehill 3-2 in the last 5 minutes. They made it to the regional final before suffering a heartbreaking 4-2 loss, despite the addition of Liam Elbourne. This was the team's only loss in their entire season of approx. 20 games. Key players on the team included Rory, Ankur, John, Will, and Garrett. Max and Alex did a stellar job in nets throughout the season. Thank you very much to Mr. O'Carroll for a great job coaching and Ms. Goodfellow for managing the team.

Middle School HOCKEY

The Middle School Hockey Team had a great year participating in the competitive Halifax Jr. High League that played every Friday night at Centennial Rink. They finished 3rd in the league, with a record of 6-1-2. They also competed in the Armbruster Invitational Tournament in the fall, winning every round robin game and taking the closely-fought championship game over a competitive team from Ontario. The team consisted of 16 players, led by captain Alex Fraser (M5) and assistants Jordan Bezanson, Will Stordy and Bryson Tomcik (all M4). Parents Larry Stordy & Kevin Bezanson and Dr. Mike Butt coached the team, all of whom were very pleased with the work ethic & discipline the boys showed in practice and the skill & determination they demonstrated during games. - Larry Stordy

Middle/Senior TENNIS

The HGS tennis team had another successful tournament at Rothesay-Netherwood School in Rothesay, New Brunswick. Division winners for singles were: Alistair Chauhan (O16), Adelle Goodfellow (U16), Alex Chun (O16), and Sara Jovanovic (U14) who defeated Julia Baydar in a close final game. Division winners for doubles were: Trevor Law and Andrew Machum (U14), and Julia Baydar (U14) and her partner from Sacred Heart who defeated Sara Jovanovic and Lizzie O'Carroll in the final game. Alistair Chauhan and Dhruv Janmeja (U16) lost a close final match and finished second in the U16 boys doubles.

Middle School TOUCH FOOTBALL

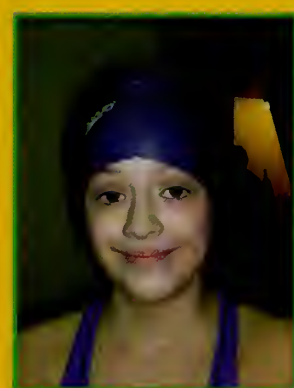

This year's team had a spectacular season, making it to the quarterfinals before being eliminated by Highland Park. The co-ed team of grade 7-9 students included both 3-year veterans and newcomers. They worked hard and constantly. Memorable games included everything from last-ditch Hail Mary touchdowns to game-winning interceptions, resulting in both heart-breaking losses and hard-earned victories. However cliché it may sound, Grammar, although occasionally leaving no mark on the scoreboard, left a more lasting mark, outplaying many other teams in spirit. All 3 coaches, who had as much fun as anybody, are proud of the team. Many thanks to M. MacNeil, this year's staff supervisor who took the time to attend every practice and game, and also to the students and parents who came to cheer us on. This year's coaches were Alex Morris S2, Pelham Flowerdew S2, and Andrew Murphy.

HGS SKI TEAM

This team, consisting of skiers from both the Middle and Senior schools, was coached by Frau Fitz, Mr. Wiggin, and Mr. Curran. They skied in 3 regional races as well as provincials, all at Wentworth. The course was pure ice at times, and they raced through extreme cold and hail storms. The elements didn't affect their results, and times were outstanding. Andrew Murphy finished third for senior boys individually in regionals and third provincially. The intermediate girls' team came first in regionals, with the top five times, and second in provincials. These results came with little time for practice and training. The team would like to extend a special thank you to their amazing coaches and teammates for their hard work, advice, and encouragement. Team: Andrew Murphy, Florent Herbingier, Philip Gores, Ian Burke, Shazaib Khan, Annika Gnann, Claudia Sekula, Sydney Adamson, Michaela Title, Amy Minnikin, Tara Sverko, Franziska Gnann.

HGS SWIM TEAM

The Halifax Grammar Swim Team produced another fine showing at the ACIS meet in February. Our Senior team was small but mighty and our Junior team was very powerful. This group of swimmers were keen and flexible, willing to fill in for a missing team mate or swim in an older age division when needed. It was a fast paced event, with 45 races running in two and a half hours. HGS won the Junior Division and won the most points overall. Great job team! We are proud of you! Many thanks to Mme. Martine Benson and Ms. Kim Gallivan for all of their assistance.¹⁰³
